Sharapova advances after late scare

Fifth-seeded Maria Sharapova, whose serve abandoned her in the second set, and former No. 1 Serena Williams both survived scares yesterday. Sharapova edged 19-year-old Bojana Jovanovski of Serbia 6-1, 7-5 in a chilly evening match. Earlier, defending champion Caroline Wozniacki crashed out of the women's draw, shocked by Roberta Vinci 6-4, 7-5. More coverage, page 40.

McGuinty revises GO tardy-train refund vow

◗ 70% of current late arrivals would qualify for money back ◗ Idea could cost $7M a year

GO train riders will get refunds next year if trains are more than 15 minutes late — but not if delays are caused by extreme weather, accidents, medical emergencies or police investigations.

Premier Dalton McGuinty made the pledge yesterday, saying it's "one step better" than the 20 minutes under consideration when he first proposed the idea in June.

The refunds will only be for circumstances over which the transit service has more control, such as equipment failure or track maintenance, McGuinty said.

Details on how the refunds would work, and when exactly they would begin, were scarce, with GO officials admitting many complications need to be worked out. Those include coming up with an official definition of what constitutes "extreme weather."

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Winter woes

- Dalton McGuinty's promise comes five years after GO notched one of its worst records, when one in 10 trains was late.
- Now only one per cent of trains are 20 or more minutes late.
- In previous winters, GO trains have been plagued by delays from problems like frozen rail switches in small snowfalls or during periods of extreme cold.

Critics plan to crash trash party

Opponent of planned Durham garbage incinerator predicts hundreds will show up uninvited to ground-breaking ceremony

It's the hottest ticket in town — if you can get one.

Durham Region residents are burning mad that they've been shut out of next week's ground-breaking ceremony for a controversial garbage incinerator. And they're threatening to crash the invitation-only event, on a vast, empty lot just east of Oshawa.

"We're going there anyway," vows Doug Anderson, president of the opposition group DurhamCLEAR.

Scores of politicians, officials and businesspeople have been invited to watch the first shovel hit the ground Wednesday morning on the 12-hectare site in Clarington, where the $272-million facility will be built.

The 11:30 a.m. ceremony will be followed by a reception in tents set up for the celebration.

"It's a slap in the face," says Barry Dutton, a self-described "regular guy" who believes taxpayers have a right to witness the "single largest capital expense in our region's history."

"Civil disobedience could be the only thing left to do," he says.

Regional chair and co-host Roger Anderson insists no one will be allowed into the three-hour event without a pass, but he doesn't explain how they'll be kept off the unfenced property.

Outraged over the snub to taxpayers, "who are technically owners," Clarington Coun. Corinna Traill is urging everyone to join her on-site for the "joyous occasion."

"If this is such a great thing, why is the public being excluded?" she asks.

Safety concerns

A joint initiative with York Region, the Durham York Energy Centre will burn 140,000 tonnes of trash a year while generating electricity.

Residents have fought for six years to stop the project, concerned that toxic air emissions will put their health at risk.

Consultants and officials insist the state-of-the-art facility will be safe.

Living doesn't come easy if you rent

For tenants who are flexible, holding off on renting during peak season could be advantageous

Native Montrealer Fiona O'Connor moved to Toronto in May for work, but quickly found the bachelor she had rented month-to-month was too small. That set her on a quest for a two-bedroom — and put her in stiff competition with other renters.

"I would show up to viewings and there would be at least 25 people ahead of me," O'Connor said.

Some apartments were not as advertised, with landlords stretching the definition of "two-bedroom" to include rooms that weren't closed off from the rest of the unit.

"It's not like we're dealing with an abundance" of rental units, said Shaun Hildebrand, the CMHC's senior market analyst for the GTA.

Hildebrand said several factors, such as rising home ownership costs and recent changes to mortgage rules, mean tenants are delaying buying.

Immigration levels also affect the rental market, as many newcomers will rent after arriving in Canada.

Shaida Addetia, manager of settlement services at WoodGreen Community Services, said finding an apartment for newcomers has been difficult for years. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Wait for winter

- Moving companies and landlords will tell you summer is the busiest time for renters.
- People tend to move when the weather is good, many leases are renewed during the summer months, and students may also be on the hunt for their first apartment before school starts.
- In June, the CMHC reported a 1.6 per cent vacancy rate for apartments in the GTA. The vacancy rate during the same period in 2010 was 2.7 per cent.

City speeds up private trash talks

Private haulers will replace city workers picking up trash from 165,000 Toronto homes earlier than expected, the public works committee chair is predicting.

Coun. Denzil Minnan-Wong said yesterday that collection between the Humber River and Yonge Street could be privatized as early as July 2012, rather than February 2013.

City staff managed to speed up the bid preparation process, he said. Minnan-Wong said the move potentially could save taxpayers $3 million through a quicker move to private workers rather than 300 temporary city workers, whose contracts would not be renewed.

Yesterday, the city issued a "request for quotation" tender on a seven-year contract predicted to be worth $200 million. Bids close Sept. 27. Council will vote on the recommended bidder in late October.

Around the same time, the city will be in contract talks with two CUPE union locals, including 416, which represents waste collectors. Mayor Rob Ford's administration has said it will try to negotiate away a clause protecting permanent workers from losing their jobs to outsourcing.

Ford campaigned last year on contracting out trash collection beyond the borders of Etobicoke, which moved to private collection 16 years ago, before amalgamation.

The privatization of "District 2" is forecast to save the city $6 million per year. A further $2 million is expected to be saved by contracting out waste pickup from parks, and some of the vacuum street cleaners. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

No waste here

- Ford won a partial victory in May when council voted in favour of contracting out collection, but with caveats including that the city manager first conduct an independent review to verify the promised savings.
- At the time, Ford vowed to put waste collection across the city out to contract, saying: "We're going to do Yonge Street first, and the next phase will be up to Victoria Park, and the next stage will be up to Markham Road."

Fake leases, real cash

A Toronto man has been charged after apartment seekers said they were scammed out of first and last months' rent.

Police allege the man listed rental units on online classified websites, then collected two months' worth of rent after getting applicants to sign bogus lease agreements.

Traveller's spirit and Scotiabank support help Shanghai native start Canadian journey

As the operator of a Shanghai travel agency, Yuxiang Zhang had a love of travel that he put to the test when he decided to move to Canada. But when he faced worries about this colossal trip, he discovered how Scotiabank's multinational team and services can provide a smooth landing.

Mr. Zhang's personal journey began after he visited Becky, his only daughter, who had immigrated to Canada in 1999. Seeing how she was enjoying her life in a friendly, multicultural country, he decided to become a family class immigrant.

"I was excited to join my daughter, but I was also unsure about the details, such as how would I move forward without speaking English?" says Mr. Zhang, who also wondered about practical issues such as the process to transfer money to a Canadian bank.

Fortunately, Becky convinced him to attend an immigration seminar in Shanghai, hosted by Scotiabank and The Cross-Cultural Community Services Association, where Bank officials answered every question, ranging from the Canadian job market to government services. He also learned about the Scotiabank StartRight® Program[1] for Newcomers, which includes a free day-to-day bank account for one year[2], a wide range of VISA* card options[3] and a number of other customized services and benefits.

"Before the seminar, I was very worried, but afterwards I felt relieved, and it gave me the courage to move forward," recounts Mr. Zhang, who arranged for his Canadian and U.S. dollar bank accounts with Scotiabank, and applied for a credit card, while still in Shanghai, through the Bank's partnership with China Everbright Bank.

After landing in Toronto in late 2009, Mr. Zhang went alone to the Scotiabank branch at the Steeles & Silverstar location to activate his accounts. Speaking only Mandarin and Russian, he wasn't sure how things would go. Luckily, he was greeted by Isa Ho, Branch Manager, and her multilingual staff. "Surprisingly, it went well, and my accounts and debit card were ready, and my VISA* card came within a week," marvels Mr. Zhang.

Isa, a Canadian immigrant who speaks both Cantonese and Mandarin, is well prepared to serve newcomers. She often calls them long distance before they move, to help them prepare. "I tell them about banking options and what are the best schools for their kids," says Isa, a 31-year veteran of Scotiabank, who still remembers seeing donuts for the first time when she arrived. "When they get here, we answer their questions about Canadian customs, and explain about banking in Canada. Also, since many newcomers want to buy a home, we educate them on Canadian mortgages and how to avoid credit mistakes."

Today, Mr. Zhang is enjoying life in Canada, studying English and preparing to start a tour business for both Chinese and Canadian travellers. During an upcoming visit to China, he will tell others about the opportunities in Canada and "the friendly, open and trustworthy service I experience at Scotiabank."

That's good news for Isa Ho who teaches her Scotiabank team to "Welcome every newcomer with a smile, speak their language, and serve them with our hearts."

THIS ADVERTORIAL IS PREPARED BY SCOTIABANK.

With the support of Scotiabank's Isa Ho, Mr. Yuxiang Zhang is discovering a world of opportunities in Canada.

Climb to conquer mental illness

18 Markham Stouffville Hospital supporters go up Mt. Kilimanjaro

TERESA KRUZE
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

"My dad was holding my hand all the way to the top," Bryce Wylde says as his eyes fill with tears, "I finally have closure."

Wylde, a homeopathic doctor, author and television personality, recently climbed Mt. Kilimanjaro in the Climb to Conquer with 17 other medical professionals to raise money for Markham Stouffville Hospital. He dedicated his climb up Africa's highest mountain to his late father who struggled with mental health all his life.

Early in the climb, Wylde raced to the side of one of the porters when he collapsed on a trail. Dr. Christyne Peters and Dr. Eileen Lougheed were waiting. "He was in a septic state," Dr. Lougheed recalls. "He could have died if he wasn't treated within 24 hours." Just as they were transporting the sick guide to hospital, Dr. Lougheed was summoned to another group where a 30-year-old man was coughing up blood. The man was determined to keep climbing but Dr. Lougheed finally convinced him that he would die if he continued.

During their 11 days in Africa, Wylde and the team of climbers raised $500,000 for children and adolescent mental health programs at Markham Stouffville Hospital, saved two lives and watched with pride as every member of their group made it to the top.

"It turned into one of the most life-changing events I have ever been a part of," Wylde says.

Driver who struck cyclist found guilty

A Cuban cigar executive has been found guilty of driving drunk and causing a 2008 collision that left a cyclist partially blind.

Jose Lugo-Alonso, 61, was found guilty of impaired driving causing bodily harm in a ruling yesterday by Ontario Superior Court Justice Harriet Sachs.

On the night of July 31, 2008, Lugo-Alonso struck cyclist William Crawford, 57, with his minivan as Crawford was waiting to turn left from Lower Jarvis Street onto the Esplanade.

The accident left Crawford partially blind and hearing impaired, forcing him to give up his civil service job.

"I am satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Lugo-Alonso's impairment was a significant contributing cause of the accident," Sachs said in the ruling.

PETER SMALL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

"If Mr. Lugo-Alonso had not been impaired he would have seen Mr. Crawford's bicycle and stopped."

Dressed in a crisp white suit, the president of Havana House Cigar and Tobacco Merchants Ltd. sat with his head bowed throughout most of the ruling, a translator by his side.

In his testimony last week, Lugo-Alonso admitted to drinking at least four ounces of Cuban rum with a friend shortly before his Toyota Sienna struck Crawford, but said he did not feel impaired.

Student in video recovering

The video has become synonymous with London's riots: A young man, bleeding and dazed, is helped from the ground by a group of youths — who promptly unzip his backpack and callously take off with its contents. The young man is 20-year-old Malaysian accounting student Mohammad Asyraf Haziq, who was cycling with a friend in east London on Monday to a gathering to break his fast for the Muslim holy month of Ramadan, according to a friend, Dzuhair Hanafiah. Hanafiah said Haziq was helped by a local woman who brought him into her home. Using Facebook, she was able to help him contact a friend and helped him until he could get to the hospital.

Now Nobbe, who sells municipal bonds, has become something of a celebrity, even a hero to many. ▶ London Mayor Boris Johnson meets local residents yesterday in Enfield, one of the areas affected by the riots.

They came to restore their city's good name, armed with brooms.

The morning after devastating riots swept across London, hundreds of people gathered in Twitter-organized crews to sweep up broken glass, clean vandalized buildings and show the world — and themselves — that their city is about more than mindless destruction.

"After everything that happened last night, it's good to see people can come together for something other than looting," said Jina Creighton, 23, gathering with dozens of others outside the subway station in the Camden area of London.

"The police are stretched to the limit, so it's down to them doing what they can and the people helping out."

Hundreds more volunteered in other riot-ravaged areas of London, from Croydon in the south of the city to Ealing in the west, by a campaign started on Twitter while the violence was still raging overnight.

The volunteer cleanup was spontaneous, loosely organized and enthusiastic. Participants ranged from students to retirees. Many had come equipped with brooms and rubber gloves.

Harper lashes out at critics of free-trade deal

Critics of free trade with Colombia who talk about human rights are really more concerned about protectionism, Stephen Harper claims.

That was the prime minister's blunt message yesterday as he stood beside his Colombian counterpart on the eve of a historic free-trade deal coming into effect.

"We can't block the progress of a country like this for protectionist reasons, and you trying to use human rights as a front for doing that," Harper said in Colombia's presidential palace after being asked about critics who cite human-rights concerns in dealing with the country.

The NDP opposed the Conservative government's signing of a free-trade agreement with Colombia in 2008 and tried to block the deal. But the deal passed and it takes effect Monday.

Similar concerns over human rights held by some American lawmakers and labour groups have held up a U.S.-Colombia free-trade pact.

China shows rising naval ambitions

300-metre aircraft carrier leaves from the northern port of Dalian

China's first aircraft carrier swept through fog-shrouded waters yesterday to open sea trials that underscore concerns about the country's growing military strength and its increasingly assertive claims over disputed territory.

The mission by the refurbished former Soviet carrier marks a first step in readying the craft for full deployment. China says the ship is intended for research and training, pointing to longer-term plans to build up to three additional clones of the carrier in China's own shipyards.

"As a major economy, China on the one hand should take more responsibilities for the world and on the other hand, it has some new security interests that it needs to protect … China's naval power needs to grow accordingly," said Wang Shaopu, director of Shanghai's Center for Pan-Pacific Studies at Jiaotong University. China has spent the better part of a decade refurbishing the carrier formerly known as the Varyag.

- It was towed from Ukraine in 1998, minus its engines, weaponry, and navigation systems.

Israel's Arab Spring?

Some Israelis protesting inequality credit influence of uprisings in region
Others reject idea Many closer culturally to the West than Middle East

URIEL SINAI/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Thousands of people march in the streets during a protest against the rising cost of living Saturday in Tel Aviv, Israel.

Israelis, living in an island of relative freedom and comfort and surrounded by countries they generally view with disdain, are not accustomed to taking their cues from Arabs.

So the idea that the eruption of a mass movement protesting Israel's corrosive social inequality could have been influenced — even inspired — by the Mideast's Arab Spring revolts, for many Israelis, just doesn't compute.

But the traces of influence were there as a quarter million Israelis took to the streets last weekend to protest a stratospheric cost of living, poor public services and one of the highest income gaps in the developed world. Chants echoed those that rang out in the streets of Arab capitals, and tent protest camps on the style of those in Cairo's Tahrir Square have arisen in the streets of Tel Aviv and other Israeli cities.

Both movements shared a dramatic suddenness: Much like Arabs had for decades seemed resigned to dictatorships, Israelis had taken economic divisions as a fact of life, until each decided they had had enough.

Meth traffickers win

JOSH ANDERSON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Investigators in McMinnville, Tenn., examine a bag of methamphetamine said to be worth $10,000 US.

Cash cutbacks thwart efforts by U.S. police to bust illicit labs

Police in some U.S. states have made a retreat in the war on meth.

They've abandoned pursuit of the drug, methamphetamine, because they can no longer afford to clean up the toxic waste generated by labs that make it.

Many law enforcement agencies have called off tactics that have been used for years to confront drug makers: Sending agents undercover, conducting door-to-door investigations and setting up stakeouts at pharmacies to catch people buying large amounts of cold medicine.

The steep cutbacks began after the federal government in February cancelled a program that provided millions of dollars to help local agencies dispose of seized labs.

"The big issue is money. We have taken 10 steps backward."
TONY SAUCEDO, MICHIGAN STATE POLICE METH ENFORCEMENT DIRECTOR

Since then, the number of labs seized appears to have plummeted by a third in some key meth-producing states.

One sheriff became so frustrated he considered burning meth waste illegally in a landfill rather than leaving it in neighbourhoods where children could find it.

Authorities say meth trafficking remains brisk. Record busts are being reported in states that fund their own cleanups.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What is it?

- Methamphetamine is not legally available in Canada.
- It belongs to a family of drugs called amphetamines — powerful stimulants that speed up the body's central nervous system.
- In the 1930s it was marketed as a nasal decongestant, and is still medically available in the U.S. as a treatment for obesity.
- For recreational use, it is made in illicit labs with fairly inexpensive, and often toxic or flammable, ingredients.

TSX's rising path paved with gold

Loonie falls as investors believe U.S. Fed's move to keep rates low means Bank of Canada will follow suit

The Toronto Stock Exchange extended its rally to a second session yesterday but the scene was completely different in New York, where another day of market carnage saw steep losses.

The TSX rise, following a 438-point jump on Tuesday, was due in large measure to gold stocks that rose as new worries about the European debt crisis pushed bullion past the $1,800 US mark for the first time and oil stocks were driven higher by surging prices.

South of the border, the Dow industrials plunged 519.83 points to 10,719.94, wiping out Tuesday's strong gains. The Nasdaq composite index lost 101.47 points to 2,381.05 while the S&P 500 index lost 51.77 points to 1,120.76.

Market moment

PRICES AS OF 5 P.M. YESTERDAY

TSX	Dollar
+ 89.63 (12,198.89)	- 1.64¢ (100.52¢ US)

Oil	Natural gas 1,000 cu ft
+ $3.59 US ($82.89 US)	$4.003 (+ 0.9¢)
	Gold $1,784.30 (+ $41.30)

The central problems confronting markets remain: Dwindling confidence in political leaders and central bankers to get a grip on the European government debt crisis and a growing conviction that the U.S. is sliding back into recession.

Despite the positive showing on the TSX, volatility continued to rule the market with the main index down as much as 192 points earlier in the session

"This market is not trading on fundamentals, it's trading on fear," said Kathryn Delgreco, investment adviser at TD Waterhouse. "It's now focusing on a loss of confidence."

WHAT TO SAY WHEN DEATH IS STARING AT YOU

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

As The Guy Who Almost Died, I have important lessons to teach you about life and death.

First, it's never a good situation when you're hoping for phlegm.

That's what I'm doing as I write this in an ER, hoping that my dry cough will change to something grosser — something a teenage boy eating Oreos would be proud to expectorate.

I have a blood disorder that nearly killed me several years ago, and the only persistent symptom was a dry cough. It brought to mind those Hollywood roles in which blonds supposedly on death's door cough tasteful amounts of blood into a white kerchief.

But eventually my symptoms progressed to waking up under my desk thinking, "This isn't good." If you develop the keen medical eye I have, you'll come to recognize that as a bad sign.

With this background, I prefer coughs to be horrible phlegm-filled monstrosities, because then I know I have a cold. When I have a dry hack with no other symptoms, I start hiding my more embarrassing sex-related possessions and making sure I'm wearing clean underwear.

"It's like my hero, the sheep from Garfield, says: There are problems you can do something about, so why worry? And there are problems you can't do anything about, so why worry?"

As you can see, my Guy Who Almost Died wisdom runs deep. As such, I offer the following life lessons to save you the trouble of nearly dying. You're welcome.

Loved ones rock: People overplay how important it is to have a positive attitude when sick. It's like the train jumped the tracks and everybody's talking about how brave you were when all you did was hold tight and say, 'Whoooooaaah.'

On the other hand, it made a big difference for me to see family and friends around me smiling and happy, as opposed to the doctor who (I swear) kept looking back and forth between me and the body bags.

Victimhood sucks: I joined a Facebook group for survivors of my condition, but it was mostly people talking about how they'd never live without fear again. What's the point?

It's like my hero, the sheep from Garfield, says: There are problems you can do something about, so why worry? And there are problems you can't do anything about, so why worry?

Love your body: People who look in the mirror and say, "I hate my body" because it's not perfect deserve a slap. People with, say, ALS can hate their bodies if they so choose.

You have to love yours. That's a rule.

Even love the bad stuff. Especially the phlegm. Cough, cough, ahem.

Worth mentioning

TOMATOES. Any way you slice it, the tomato is one confusing comestible.

Is it a fruit or a vegetable? This is the kind of thing that can spark quite the argument, with both sides passionately supporting their claims. Oddly enough, both are right, at least according to the USDA's Economic Research Service. Yes, botanically speaking the tomato is a fruit, but horticulturally and legally it is considered a vegetable.

This debate has been adjudicated by none other than the U.S. Supreme Court. It happened in the late 19th century in connection with a challenge to tariffs on imported produce. The high court ruled that despite the botanical definition, tomatoes are a vegetable, in part because at the tables of the time they were served as "the principal part of the repast" and not as dessert.

No telling what the justices would have done in today's envelope-pushing culinary world of tomato jams and gelatos.

In the U.S., today's tomatoes are mainly tariff-free since those that aren't grown domestically are mostly imported from Mexico and Canada, which are covered by the NAFTA free trade zone.

WEIRD NEWS

Somebody has been eating her porridge...

A woman who turned her rural Northern California home into a spa for wild bears won't go to jail.

The San Francisco Chronicle reports that Lynne Gravier of Laytonville pleaded guilty Monday in Mendocino County to a misdemeanour charge of feeding big game.

However, prosecutors agreed to drop the charge in three years if Gravier agrees to stop her bear feeding.

Gravier says she's glad it's over.

The 77-year-old woman set out a wading pool and bought thousands of pounds of food to feed her guests with corn meal and peanut butter sandwiches.

Neighbours complained that the bears killed livestock and broke into homes.

Last year, authorities found 15 black bears at Gravier's home. The filthy house was condemned, and Gravier now lives elsewhere.

Relaxation is a ferry ride away

Music fest promises to be different than the average concert

BACKSTAGE PASS

IAN GORMELY
METRO TORONTO

Toronto Island's ability to take visitors out of the normal hustle and bustle of city life is enough to make even the most hardened urban-warrior scream for joy. So it's fitting that the only music fest not on the mainland is named after digital equivalent of yelling.

A co-presentation of Wavelength, the Whippersnapper Gallery and Artscape, the ALL CAPS! Island Festival blends music, film and art with the Island's natural environment to create a completely unique experience, says festival founder Ryan McLaren.

"When you get on the ferry you can feel the stress alleviate," says Josh Brandt, program director at the Whippersnapper Gallery. "You smell the air. You feel the wind. It's like, 'Awww, yeah.'"

Held at Artscape's Gibraltar Point studios, the all-ages festival lets musicians like Rich Aucoin, Evening Hymns and Julie Doiron rub shoulders with the artists in residence at the studio. Brandt and Whippersnapper administrative director Adrian DiLena have also commissioned four unique collaborations between musicians and artists using the Island's geography and architecture as their backdrop.

"It's not what you might normally see when you go see a band, or what you might normally see when you go see an art show," says Brandt.

Run almost entirely by volunteers, the not-for-profit fest started in 2006 at Dufferin Grove Park as an offshoot of Wavelength's weekly music series.

It moved to the Island in 2009 and expanded into a second day last year. Organizers expect about 250 people each day if the sunny weather holds; the camping passes introduced this year sold out in one day.

"It's a community-oriented thing," says McLaren. "You get to have a weekend where you're really enveloped by this vibe."

DiLena agrees. "By the end of that night, hopefully everyone will have made a lot of new friends."

Ticket info

ALL CAPS! Island Festival, featuring music, art, BBQ and bonfire at Artscape Gibraltar Point, Toronto Island, takes place on Saturday and Sunday. Weekend passes are $20, day tickets $12 in advance, $15 at the door.

Ruthian history on the Island

ALL CAPS! organizers profess an unabashed love for Toronto Island and its history.

Festival founder Ryan McLaren in particular is quick to share his knowledge.

"The entire area was populated by homes — there was even a convenience store."

But the most interesting piece of trivia he shared involves the land that now houses the Toronto Island Airport.

"There was a baseball diamond where Babe Ruth hit his very first home run," he says.

That diamond was also the original home of the Toronto Maple Leafs semi-pro baseball team, which now plays at Christie Pits Park. "It burnt down twice and they rebuilt it twice." IAN GORMELY

Getting closer to Glee

Stars of hit show talk about the challenges of doing a live concert film

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

For most television actors, the months between filming seasons of a show is a time for vacation or squeezing in film roles. For the Glee kids, not so much. Instead, they hit the road to tide their fans over until new episodes hit the air. And now the cast makes the jump to the big screen with Glee: the 3D Concert Movie, a best-of mix of their stadium tour that took them across the U.S. and to Europe during their summer off.

While the live tour isn't a new thing for the Glee cast — they did the same last summer — the experience of playing to 20,000 fans a night isn't something they find easy to get used to.

"It is different because on a set it's closed off. I think crowds are a little more forgiving than your script supervisor," says Darren Criss, who plays Colfer's private school-attending boyfriend Blaine.

The concert film also features some cute backstage interviews with the cast, done as their on-screen characters — an acting exercise that proved more difficult for some, it turns out.

"It's hard. I definitely blew it a couple of times," Criss says.

In one particularly humorous moment, Michele's Rachel is told that her idol, Barbra Streisand, is in the audience that night, which renders her speechless.

Michele admits real life isn't that far off.

"I did get to meet her," she says. "I held it together and cried when she walked away."

Backstage interviews aside, Michele says keeping in character on tour wasn't a priority.

"Some of us onstage, if they wanted to really embody their characters, they did," she says. "I feel like I did a nice blend of Rachel and of Lea while I was on stage performing. We are our characters, but when we walk off stage we are definitely ourselves."

Meet the Material Girl 2.0

Madonna's daughter takes bigger role in designing for their fashion line

HANDOUT

▶ Lourdes "Lola" Leon

Even though she's got her own fashion line, Lourdes Leon — better known to the masses as Lola, the daughter of Madonna — admits that she had a lot to learn when she first launched the Material Girl brand.

"It was really hard at first because I didn't know what I was doing," Lola, dressed in a tank top and jean cutoffs, said in a recent interview.

"I was like, 'You know, not a lot of people wear this. Let me just wear it.' It wasn't even that it looked good on me. I was just like, 'Let me do this because not a lot of people are doing it.' Now I feel like I can follow fashion a lot better than I used to, but also have some of my own take on it."

Her learning curve is understandable: After all, she's just 14. But she's already a fashion star with Material Girl, which is geared toward teens and sold at Macy's. The line, which she launched with her mother last year, is now branching out into cosmetics, undergarments and nail polish.

Your mom once said that the two of you don't always agree on designs.

Absolutely. Every day. ... I will be like, "Mom, you can't wear that." Or she will be like, "Lola, you can't wear that." A lot of the time we don't listen to each other, but sometimes we do.

When it comes to designing Material Girl, who wins out?

Me. I have to tell her, "Mom, it is the in thing. This is what kids are doing now. If you don't do this, then it is going to suck." And then she usually gives in.

Do you go to your mom's closet for inspiration?

Her closet is huge. All the time. I am always in there and if no one knows where I am in the house, it is usually my mom's closet and I am usually taking something without asking her. She gets mad at me.

How does it feel to have a clothing line at such a young age?

It is really cool, and also it is a lot of fun to know that my friends enjoy it, and to know that a lot of people enjoy it because it is also a lot of what I like. My friends have great style. I go to an arts school, so a lot of them are really artistic and passionate about a lot of things that inspire what they wear.

Your line has expanded to include nail polish and undergarments. What is your ultimate vision for the collection?

I think it has continued to evolve and now it is at a point where we have so much stuff that I use and that I think other people will really enjoy using, so I like it.

Brangelina brood hide out in London

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Angelina Jolie reportedly wasn't too happy staying in London while Brad Pitt films World War Z — and that was before this week's riots broke out.

"Angie was a little nervous, but felt safe," a source says.

The riots began amid anger over a fatal police shooting

"She was really scared and worried about the safety of the kids, but, as the day has gone by, we've been able to get a clear picture on what's going on. She felt safe enough to take the children out. Of course, we are not going anywhere near central London."

The family is staying in the suburb of Richmond, while Pitt is currently shooting on the coast.

"Brad is worried," the source says.

"He's pretty safe because he's in Falmouth, but knowing Angie and the kids are in London is what's making him worried."

Hathaway confronted MTV News about the pic during an interview this week. "I asked someone to send me a few reactions," she says.

"And I happen to know that MTV's reaction was 'meh'."

But the actress isn't worried. "What I am happy to say is, if you didn't like the photo, you only see about a 10th of what that suit can do," she says.

- Break out your high-heel pumps, your boldest lipstick or your best fedora
- Banana Republic and Mad Men are teaming up to bring retro polish to the modern workplace

The designers have gone Mad!

Mad Men has gone beyond a fashion fad. The AMC show about a 1960s ad agency — in which style is as important as the characters and plot — continues to influence runways and retailers with a branded collection debuting next week at Banana Republic.

The new clothing line also provides a temporary fix for Mad Men devotees awaiting the show's return in 2012. No new episodes of the show aired this year.

The clothes are sexy, and Joanna Coles, editor-in-chief of Marie Claire, says that's one of the things that really has resonated with both viewers and shoppers. The show gives us permission to dress to impress the opposite sex — in fact it encourages it, she observes.

"Mad Men shows you how to look great in the workplace, and it shows you how to work it," Coles says.

It's the rare TV show that glamorizes the office and fills it with attractive people, she says: "When you look at something like The Office, no male executive wants to recreate the style of Steve Carell. No one wears lipstick at Dunder Mifflin. Mad Men makes the office a more exciting place than it often is, and Banana Republic is trying to channel that."

Madison Avenue during that era was practically a catwalk with men in three-piece suits and fedoras, and women in sheaths and high-heel pumps carrying handle-top handbags.

▶ The Mad Men inspired collection features a colour palette dominated by sophisticated navys, reds and blacks.

It's a good look – and one that people look good in, says Simon Kneen, creative director for Banana Republic. "It's about good tailoring, it's bon ton, and a little more buttoned up and polished."

But, he says, a key part of the collaboration between Banana Republic and the show's costume designer Janie Bryant was to be sure they weren't crafting costumes. The clothes are modern, with shapes and details adapted to a contemporary eye, Kneen explains.

Looking good while doing good

TV personality Jessi Cruickshank gives back through Fashion with Love
Designs shirt inspired by stay in Kenya

ELIZABETH BEDDALL
STYLE@METRONEWS.CA

Inspired by a trip to rural Kenya in 2009, Jessi Cruickshank searched for a way to pay tribute to the family she stayed with, who were working hard to lift themselves and their community out of poverty.

Teaming with Free the Children (a charity organization that empowers youth to be active local and global citizens) and ethical-apparel organization Me To We Style, the fashionista found a way to say thank you by designing a shirt that is stylish, sustainable and most importantly, that serves a purpose.

When did this collaboration begin? The first shirt I created, three or four years ago, did really well. And then a white one that I created about a year ago when I came back from my trip to Kenya did so well that we wanted to re-launch it this year for fall, for back-to-school. The proceeds go back to helping families like the one that I lived with in Kenya create a sustainable income for themselves.

Are you still in contact with the family you visited in Kenya? I have spoken to them on the phone several times, I have a message I've saved from my phone when they first saw the design for the shirt they all called me and screamed at once. I don't know if this is the most practical item for them to wear – but certainly they deserve all the credit because this design is a straight rip off of the beadwork that they make so beautifully.

▶ The Africa Tee retails for $44.50 and can be purchased at metowestyle.com.

Can you elaborate on how this particular design is a reflection of your time in Kenya? At the end of my trip — this family really had nothing and had given me everything — so at the end the whole community was lined up to wish me goodbye and they each presented me with a piece of jewelry and beadwork which really was their main source of income. I didn't know how I could possibly thank them at the time, and then I came back and so this is sort of my way of thanking them and honouring them and giving back in a way that I can.

What makes this shirt different from another charity tee? I think a lot of charity shirt are, kind of ...ugly. Can I say that? Who needs another logo shirt that they're going to squeeze into the back of their closet. So my objective was to create something that was eco-friendly, sustainable that the proceeds go to something that means a lot to me, and to make it chic and fashionable.

Good garment

About the Africa Tee:

- The Africa Tee is Canadian-made, sweatshop-free and eco-friendly.
- Half of Me to We's net profits are donated to its charity partner, Free the Children, so part of the proceeds from the tee will go right back to helping families in Kenya live a better life.
- For every tee purchased, Free the Children will also plant a tree in the Maasai Mara region of Kenya.

JOBS AHEAD THANKS TO HOT HIGHRISE MARKET

ROOFTOP SURFING

STEPHEN DUPUIS
HOME
@METRONEWS.CA

It has been said that analysis of Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation housing starts data is akin to looking in the rear-view mirror, and while that sounds a little derogatory, it's not at all.

As Canada's national housing agency, CMHC does a great job tracking housing markets across Canada, releasing local, provincial and national housing starts data on a monthly basis.

Earlier this week, CMHC released information on housing starts in July, noting that the seasonally-adjusted annual rate of total housing starts for the Toronto Census Metropolitan Area increased by 13 per cent to 50,300 units in July. That's a very big jump and a very high annual rate, and it's not particularly surprising, at least not to those of us who have been looking in the rear view mirror.

According to Shaun Hildebrand, CMHC's Senior Market Analyst for the GTA, "condominium apartments continued to push housing construction higher last month. Condo starts this year have already exceeded the total for all of 2010. Post-recession demand for new condos has been remarkable, which is now feeding into the construction side."

Hildebrand goes on to say that "while activity is likely to moderate from recent levels, the vast number of successful project openings over the past couple years will keep condo construction high for some time."

And there's the rear-view mirror point. The fact that condominium starts are high right now tells you that sales were high as much as 12 months ago, and now construction is starting on those buildings.

Looking through my windshield, I can confirm Hildebrand's point that condo construction is going to remain high for some time because we haven't even begun construction on the vast majority of the nearly 15,000 condos we have sold so far this year. There's jobs ahead, thanks to the hot high-rise condo market.

Ancient meets modern

Historic condos are springing up on top of Toronto's old buildings
Such developments represent the tug of war between preserving the city's heritage and moving forward

DUNCAN MCALLISTER
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Torontonians are experiencing the many examples of new condominiums built on historic sites: The Clear Spirit condos, integrated into the historic Distillery District, Omni Group's 1000-unit community, Garrison at the Yards near Fort York, and The Post House by Alterra, blending into the First Toronto Post Office, are all new developments built on heritage sites.

"It's a constant battle that we have, about what you do in a growing city, in a changing economy; what you can save and what you can't."
ARCHITECT LLOYD ALTE

An impressive example of this trend is the James Cooper Mansion by Tridel.

The original house was built in 1881 for wealthy manufacturer James Cooper and had long been home to the Knights of Columbus.

Tridel purchased the property in 2005 with plans to build a 32-storey condominium complex.

The remarkable heritage renovation involved physically moving the house to the edge of Sherbourne Street, which would become the largest residential structure relocation in Canadian history.

Architect Lloyd Alter is past president and board member of the Architectural Conservancy of Ontario.

"For me, I give hats off to Tridel. It's not in the position where it was, but they've saved and restored and put to use, a terrific building that will be there forever," he says.

The Residences at RCMI on University is a new condo project by Tribute Communities, currently in preconstruction at 426 University Avenue.

The 42-storey tower is scheduled for completion in 2013, and will house the new headquarters of The Royal Canadian Military Institute.

The RCMI has been a historical Toronto landmark since the original cornerstone was laid in 1907 by the Earl Grey, then Governor General of Canada.

Faced with a diminishing membership and a long list of expensive repairs, the Institute struck a deal with Tribute.

In June of 2010, the century-old building was finally closed to make way for the new development.

The RCMI will occupy the first six floors of the building, with plans to retain the original façade and the two famous 19th-century cannons guarding the entrance.

Any alteration of a heritage property invokes a certain passion and controversy within the community.

The RCMI development is a quandary for Alter. "Is the public good served by the deal that was made there? Architecturally no. Socially, perhaps for the Military Institute, yes. And in this way, a collection and a library and meeting place is saved. It's a constant battle that we have, about what you do in a growing city, in a changing economy; what you can save and what you can't. A lot of historic preservationists will criticize me for saying that, but you've got to pick your battles."

WHEN H.S.T. IS ALREADY INCLUDED IN THE SALE

LEGAL MATTERS

JEFFREY COWAN
HOME
@METRONEWS.CA

Q: I recently purchased a commercial condominium and my realtor filled in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale with H.S.T. being included in the purchase price. This was duly initialed by the vendors and the transaction was considered firm (without conditions).

Come the closing, the vendors realized that they were on the hook for paying $26,000.00 in H.S.T. to the government from the purchase price. They are refusing to close the transaction unless we get an H.S.T. number but our lawyer is saying that this condition is not part of the Agreement. What would you suggest?

Unfortunately for the vendors, if their agent allowed them to sign a contract for the sale of a commercial condo with H.S.T. included in the purchase price then they are on the hook to pay it.

Under tax laws, H.S.T. is applicable to the sale of all commercial property. Often if both parties are H.S.T. registrants, they can perform what is known as self-assessment and the selling party does not have to remit the applicable tax.

However, if the Agreement is silent to H.S.T. status, an individual who is purchasing a commercial property does not have to register and self-assess at the time of purchase.

In this case, if the transaction has no other conditions attached to it, your lawyer should be advising you to get your purchase funds together, and on the day of closing provide a full closing package to the other side stating you are 'ready, willing and able' to close.

This process, known as tendering, basically preserves your rights with respect to the transaction and puts the vendors on notice that you will be pursuing your legal remedies with respect to their lack of ability to close the sale.

Best of luck with this contentious issue.

If your walls could talk, they might demand a change

Stuck in a home decor rut? Dip your paintbrush into some bold and exciting colours

DESIGN CENTRE

KARL LOHNES
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Many people feel they know their decor style and spend a lot of time defining it.

The problem is that once they are happy with their decor style, they stop evolving it — it's like people who keep a successful hairstyle or pantsuit for way too long. Like fashion, colours come and go, but most importantly, they evolve.

Brown colours might always be popular, but our favourite version of brown during the 1970s is very different from what was popular in the '80s, '90s or just last year.

About eight years ago I helped a friend choose paint colours for her home.

It is now time to repaint her house and she's hoping to 'freshen things up' but wants to repeat all the old colours. But it's time to evolve her colour scheme and create some new decor memories going forward.

Here's a paint colour update to help you refresh your home without having to change your furnishings and accessories. These new colours will update your space and complement most everything you originally co-ordinated with your old wall colours.

Golden walls: Anyone that decorates with gold tones usually has a rich, luxurious-style and an over the top decor scheme.

Gold works well with elegant cream upholstery fabrics, shiny gold-gilt pictures frames and dramatic decor touches like marble columns or glass topped dining tables.

Try a new colour: Bone (Cornforth White #228, Farrow and Ball Paints).

Attached to navy walls? If you decorate with the colour navy then you are a trusted soul in decorating. Every room with navy usually has touches or brown, some version of red and burnished metal finishes.

Try a new colour: Bronze (Benjamin Moore's Meditation AF-395).

In a hunter green time warp? Welcome to the hunt club — I bet you there are lots of burgundy and gold-coloured accessories in your rooms. Hunter Green is the prestige colour of the mid 1980s.

Try a new colour: Brick (Para Paint's Clay SR37)

"The problem is that once they are happy with their decor style, they stop evolving it — it's like people who keep a successful hairstyle or pantsuit for way too long."

Confined to burgundy? Rich burgundy walls adorning bedroom and dining room walls have been popular for a long time. Red has not seen popularity in growth for one reason: brown has been so popular and brown with red is not a favourite scheme for many.

Try a new colour: Plum (Benjamin Moore's Plum Perfect 1371)

Still love those dusty rose walls? That very soft, elegant dusty rose — usually blended with grey (for a modern feel) or with warm champagne (for an elegant look) seems to never go away.

Updating the old dusty rose is not difficult as another classic has emerged.

Try a new colour: Mulberry (Benjamin Moore's Bonne Nuit AF-635).

I STOCK

▶ Paint on a whole new colour scheme.

The steely grey daze: If you had/remember steely, cold grey from the 1980s then you must also remember black lacquered coffee tables (with brassy trims) and black leather furniture.

The easy update to this modern look was to paint the walls white and proclaim your modern life but now we are warming the world up again.

Try a new colour: Driftwood (Farrow and Ball's Light Gray#17).

Stuck in the brown mud? That bold, 1970s wall colour quickly went from brown to rust to orange (could we shock the in-laws any more?) and most often stayed a version of orangey rust.

Why not throw the in-laws for a loop again?

Try a new colour: Citron (Para Paints Bean Bag Toss, P5049-42).

Question:
I'm wondering what I should do with my toilet brush? I like to keep it beside the toilet for practical reasons but at the same time I think it is really ugly.
Crystal, Winnipeg

Answer:
Dear Crystal,

The toilet brush is a cleaning apparatus much like a vacuum cleaner, mop or broom.

The toilet brush was not designed to be an decorative accessory displayed beside the toilet; it is designed and intended solely for the cleaning of the lavatory pan (toilet bowl).

In a perfect world, the toilet brush should be kept either under the bathroom sink or in a closed container within your cleaning caddy.

Although the cleaning chemicals you use to clean your toilet will help to keep your toilet brush clean, it is still dirty and exposed to bacteria based on what it is intended for.

Finally after years of household cleaning, and more importantly of training housekeepers at my butler school, I strongly recommend one solution for cleaning the toilet, and that is SC Johnson & Son Scrubbing Bubbles® Fresh Brush™ Toilet Cleaning System

Now I should own shares in this company, or at least have free products for life because I'm obsessed about this great product.

It cleans the toilet perfectly and the "chemical pad" is flushed down the toilet at the end, so all you have is the wand to keep in your cleaning caddy, this to me is the perfect toilet cleaning solution that every household should use!

Lastly, did you know that that the toilet brush was only invented in 1932?

Help your kids settle in

Moving is stressful for children as well as adults Familiar things and family routines can help your little ones adjust to living in a new home

For children, the excitement of moving into a new home is often clouded by uncertainty. Parents can ease the transition — starting at the dinner table.

The ritual of sitting down to a family meal can help kids start to feel at home, said Nancy Darling, a psychology professor at Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio. She also urges adherence to bedtimes.

"When kids feel like everything is changing, they need that stability," she said. "They need attention and stability."

That may mean anything from choosing familiar paint colours in the new house to letting kids be part of decorating decisions.

Barbara Miller, an interior designer in Portland, Ore., who has moved with her children three times, painted their new rooms the same colour as their old ones.

"I try to keep things as much the same (as possible) — especially if they're nervous," said Miller.

Darling, Miller and child psychologist Doug Tynan offered these additional tips to help children adjust to a new home.

- Introduce children to their new pad: If possible, take them to the new house before the move. If they don't have a chance to see the interior, take photos or show them the online listing.

- Let them help arrange their new space: Give kids a floor plan of their new room and let them decide where to place the furniture.

- Show them their new school: If the school has a website, spend time online getting to know the building and its teachers. Arrange to visit the school in person as soon as possible.

- Let them help: Give children a box to pack. Tell them to put their most valuable possessions in it. If possible, let them carry the box with them when travelling to the new house.

- Show kids around the new house: When you arrive, take kids on a tour.

Point out the location of light switches, bathrooms and other useful details. Make sure children know how to get to their parents' room during the night.

Consider using night lights or placing glow-in-the-dark stickers on light switches to help kids feel more comfortable.

Keep children active: Sign them up for sports teams, classes and other extracurricular activities as soon as possible.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What to expect:

Moving can be more disruptive for kids than parents realize, says Doug Tynan, a child psychologist with the Nemours Foundation in Newark, Del.

- Be prepared to handle tears or unusual behaviour as children adjust to their new setting, he said.
- Lag time: It takes five to six weeks for children to adjust to a move, estimates Tynan.

TOM UHLMAN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Make an art of decorating

Distinctive, original works of art don't have to break your budget
Try seeking out new artists, hunting for unexpected treasures and creating art of your very own

Framed posters and department-store paintings have long been staples of home decorating. But a growing number of shoppers are seeking original art for their homes, says interior designer Robert Novogratz.

"Art is about to explode to the masses," he says, because technology is giving us unprecedented access to artists.

In their new HGTV series, Home by Novogratz, Novogratz and his wife and co-host, Cortney, use original works of art to decorate each week.

"We try to feature an artist in every single episode," he says, and the pieces are often very affordable.

The first step, says Novogratz, is to discover art that speaks to you by exploring museums, galleries and art magazines. "People like what they know," he says, so broaden the scope of what interests you.

Once you know what you want, start hunting.

Here, Novogratz and two other experts — Betsy Burnham of Los Angeles' Burnham Design, and decordemon.com founder Brian Patrick Flynn — offer advice on finding the right art at the right price:

"Sometimes the larger pieces of art don't necessarily cost that much more than the smaller ones and they carry more impact."
DECORDEMON.COM FOUNDER BRIAN PATRICK FLYNN

Find talent early

Buying pieces from fledgling artists is a win-win situation.

"Go to a local college or university and email or call the art department. Tell them, 'I'm interested in photography,' or whatever you're after," Novogratz says.

Schools will let you know about upcoming art shows and possibly connect you with talented students.

By finding and communicating with new artists through schools or online, it's even possible to commission original works without huge expense.

Use your mouse

Websites can connect you with experienced artists as well as new ones. Burnham often scours eBay for art that she loves but someone else no longer wants.

She also checks the art-auction site Liveauctioneers.com and Etsy.com for original works, especially paintings.

Go big or go home

"If you are looking to display art in a more minimal space," Patrick Flynn says, "go really, really big."

- A framed 20-by-25-centimetre photo doesn't normally qualify as "art." But the same photo printed a metre wide can be striking, he says.
- Investing in one large piece of art can be more practical than buying several smaller ones.

Don't worry, she says, about choosing a piece that an art critic would love: "It just has to be something appealing to you," Burnham says.

So if you love the colours or design and it fits your budget, buy it.

Broaden your definition of art

All art isn't traditional painting or sculpture. Flynn has used everything from actual soup cans (a nod to Warhol) to an old stepladder (spray-painted bright green and hung within a picture frame) as art.

"If there's an item that means a lot to you, if it has a lot of texture, get it on the wall immediately," he says.

"And if it doesn't have texture already, paint it a bold colour to add an interesting finish."

Choose photography

A print of a distinctive, original photograph can be less expensive than an original painting or sculpture, but offer just as much artistic value.

Burnham has found beautiful photos at 20x200.com and other photography websites.

LEFT/RIGHT, INC./HGTV/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Turn your own photography or friends' work into art, by cropping shots creatively or using it in a very large format.

CHRISTINA WEDGE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Consider turning your favourite possessions into art by having them professionally photographed, then framed.

▶ Good framing can be expensive but it's worth the investment to make your art pop.

Search for vintage

"If you live in a good town to go vintage shopping, don't be put off by the wrong frame or the wrong setting," Burnham says. Searching for art to use in a home recently, she says she "found this floral painting from the wall of this really bad vintage store here in town. But reframed and cleaned up, it's fantastic."

Rock your way to relaxation

Not a fan of weeding and watering? Soothe your soul with a low-maintenance rock garden

DIY IDEAS

Avoid the headache of gardening and bring some Zen to your own backyard with careful planting, specific stone choices and the creation of your own rock garden.

Derek Stearns and Dean Marsico are the hosts of Rock Solid on DIY Network Canada.

These stonemasons regularly tackle masonry projects for the yard and home — whether it's fixing a front step or creating a backyard fire pit.

Rock your world

You need to select the stone you will be using, keeping in mind to choose a variety of large and small boulders, flat stones, coloured river bed stones and flagstone.

When installing the stones, begin with the largest and heaviest.

Use crowbars and stone shims to roll these boulders into place, creating a footing so they look natural rather than sitting on ground level.

Planting ideas

Pick plants that are suitable to your local climate to complete the design of the rock garden.

Remember to choose multiple textures and colours to create an interesting aesthetic.

Once you're ready to plant, work down the landscape and scatter the various colours and textures amongst the entire space.

Walk the walk

The final touch is to create a stepping stone area through the garden that can be used to weed, water, and stroll.

Begin by placing the stones in their desired location, then trace the outline of stones with a shovel.

Remove the stone and dig out a footing before replacing it.

Lastly, add mulch to the entire area around rocks, plants and your walkway to decorate, retain water and prevent weeds.

The deck has gone high tech

Wood is no longer the only building material as new products make decks easier to maintain

Wood decks are rapidly being replaced by plastic, aluminum and other man-made decking materials, which are prized for their easy maintenance. Builders are making decks into showpieces, with multiple levels, custom railings and other perks. Even wood is getting an upgrade, with some buyers seeking out rare, tropical hardwoods for their durability.

When Ron Spillers first began building decks in the Seattle area 20 years ago, the average deck was made of cedar and cost less than $5,000. Now, Spillers' company, West Coast Decks, charges closer to $20,000.

That's partly because 90 per cent of his customers choose man-made decking materials, which are 40 per cent more expensive.

Spillers, who builds 140 decks a year, said business is booming again after a two-year slump.

"There's a lot of pent-up desire to fix up homes instead of buying new ones," he said.

"People aren't afraid to take a risk on a $20,000 to $30,000 deck project."

You don't even have to spend that much to have a great deck.

A simple cedar deck with no railings or benches can cost around $15 per square foot, including labour and materials, Spillers said.

Man-made materials tack on cost, but you can pay that back over time because you will spend less on sealants and cleaning products.

Railings cost around $35 per foot.

No matter how much you spend, an investment in a new deck will pay dividends.

According to Remodeling Magazine's 2010-2011 survey, homeowners who build a deck can get up to 73 per cent of their investment back when they sell their home.

Materials

Here is a rundown of decking materials and their costs.

- Wood Most homeowners still choose wood when they build a deck, for its cost as well as its authentic look. It's also durable. Pressure-treated pine is the least expensive material, and costs as little as $10 per square foot including labour. Cedar and redwood are popular but more expensive options.
- Composite Composite decking is made of plastic and wood fibre. Composite looks a lot like real wood, but it's less likely to rot or get infested with insects than real wood, and it's less slippery. It's also easier to maintain. It costs around $18 to $25 per square foot, including labour.
- Plastic Plastic, or PVC decking, is newer to the market and is basically composite without the wood fibre. Azek is one of the major manufacturers. Plastic decking is less likely to stain and fade than composite. It's also more expensive. Get Decked, a Philadelphia-area deck building company, installs Azek for $34 per square foot.

Summertime & the bruschetta is easy

▶ These open-faced sandwiches are made in a few simple steps ▶ Try something new like using bananas

Banana-Manchego Bruschetta

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 230 C (450 F). Slice banana in half crosswise; slice each piece in half lengthwise to create 4 pieces. Place banana slices in small bowl; drizzle with lime juice and olive oil. Gently toss bananas to coat, then set aside.
2. Top each slice of bread with half of the arugula; set 2 bananas slices over each. Sprinkle each with bit of cayenne and salt, then half of the cheese. Toast in oven until cheese is melted and starting to brown. Serve.

Buttery Roasted Tomato Bruschetta

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 260 C (500 F). Cut each tomato in half top-to-bottom, then trim out stem area at the top of each half. Use fingers to scoop out and discard pulpy-watery centre of each half, then place tomatoes in medium bowl. Drizzle tomatoes with about 30 ml (2 tbsp) of oil toss to coat.
2. Arrange tomatoes on a baking sheet, then season liberally with salt and pepper. Roast for 15 minutes, or until starting to brown
3. Drizzle bread with bit of olive oil, then sprinkle half of rosemary over each. During final 5 minutes of tomatoes roasting, add bread to oven to toast.
4. Remove bread and tomatoes from oven. Use spoon to arrange 4 tomato halves over each bread slice. Sprinkle half of butter pieces over each; return bruschetta to oven for 1 minute, or until butter melts.

A bad boy no more?

▶ Ramsay tired of persona that made him famous

The man who put the "F" in food says he's tired of being recognized only as the bad boy of haute cuisine.

"I don't get judged enough for what I put on a plate," said a soft-spoken Gordon Ramsay, using none of the scorching profanity that so often reduces his TV tirades to a series of bleeps.

"I get judged more, I suppose, as a persona from TV, which is a pain in the butt, to be honest," he said on the eve of yesterday's opening of his first restaurant in Canada.

"I have three Michelin stars, which was my first-ever ambition in cooking. Today's media, it has its good parts and its bad parts but judge me on the plate, not me on the TV."

The Scottish-born Ramsay's Montreal restaurant, has been a local favourite since 1936 when it opened as Rotisserie Laurier BBQ. Its now got a new name: the Laurier Gordon Ramsay. "Montreal in many ways chose me," he said, comparing Montreal to Paris. "I fell in love with the place literally five years ago." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wozniacki gets bounced

Top-ranked player knocked out of Rogers Cup in second-round upset

Defending champion Caroline Wozniacki has crashed out of the women's draw of the Rogers Cup.

The top-ranked Dane was shocked by Roberta Vinci 6-4, 7-5 in the second round yesterday afternoon.

Wozniacki, who has won a WTA-leading five titles this year, was up 5-1 in the second set and looking to rally from a set down. However, the No. 22-ranked Italian stormed back with three break points to complete the upset.

Wozniacki had a bye in the first round and never really got going against Vinci, sending her return long on match point. Wozniacki also hit returns long twice at the first set point to give Vinci a lead she would not relinquish.

"I would have liked to have won that one and especially after leading 5-1 in the second," Wozniacki said. "It's not fun to lose this, but there's nothing really I can do about it now, just practise and try to do better."

Windy conditions wreaked havoc with Wozniacki's serve in the first set, as the ball repeatedly floated away when she tossed it above her. She would double fault seven times in the match.

"It was very difficult at first with the wind," Wozniacki said. "Especially when you threw it up. It was going everywhere, so definitely that didn't make it easy. It was blowing in different directions, but it's the same for both players."

It will be Vinci's first appearance in the third round of the Rogers Cup in her third visit to the tournament. She has wins this year in Barcelona, Budapest and Hertogenbosch.

Canadians done

The Canadian women's singles contingent is finished at the Rogers Cup after both Aleksandra Wozniak and Stephanie Dubois dropped matches in Toronto yesterday.

- Wozniak, from Blainville, Que., lost to No. 10 seed Samantha Stosur 6-3, 6-4 and has never made it past the second round in eight tries at the Rogers Cup.
- "Well, it's disappointing," she said. "You play at home and you want to do so well. But I thought it was a good match, and I had a really tough opponent today."
- Stephanie Dubois of Laval, Que., lost 6-0, 6-0 to world No. 4 Victoria Azarenka of Belarus last night to cap Canada's hopes.

Lawrie hits grand slam, double as Blue Jays down Athletics

▶ Brett Lawrie hits a grand slam last night.

Brett Lawrie of Langley, B.C., hit a grand slam in Toronto's five-run sixth inning to vault the Blue Jays into the lead as they defeated the Oakland Athletics 8-4 last night.

It was the second homer of his five-game major-league career. The 21-year-old third baseman played his first game for Toronto (59-57) last Friday in Baltimore.

Lawrie now has six RBIs since being called up from triple-A Las Vegas.

In Lawrie's next at-bat he lined a double off the left-field fence for a double with one out in the eighth. As he slid in to second the crowd chanted "Lawrie, Lawrie." The Canadian then scored on a single by Rajai Davis.

Lawrie was 2-for-4 on the night, and is hitting .389 (7-for-18) over his five-game career.

After Lawrie scored, Yunel Escobar was hit by a pitch from left-hander Jordan Norberto and the benches cleared briefly. Order was restored quickly.

Oakland (52-64) picked up a run in the ninth when Josh Willingham hit his 19th homer of the season against reliever Jesse Litsch.

Reliever Casey Janssen (4-0) picked up the win, while Listch picked up his first career save.

Henderson Alvarez, called up from double-A New Hampshire, lasted 5 2-3 innings in his major-league debut.

The 21-year-old pitcher allowed three runs and eight hits, including the eighth home run of the season by David DeJesus in the three-run fourth. Alvarez, whose fastball reached 97 miles per hour, struck out four. He also allowed a walk and hit a batter.

Left-hander Gio Gonzalez (9-10) took a 3-1 lead into the sixth but left with the bases loaded with none out for left-handed reliever Craig Breslow. Gonzalez had filled the bases after Adam Lind's double and walks to Edwin Encarnacion and Colby Rasmus.

Before Rasmus walked, he missed a bunt and Lind was caught off second, but catcher Kurt Suzuki's throw went into centre field for an error to put runners at second and third.

Aaron Hill singled in a run with the bases still loaded.

That set the stage for Lawrie's grand slam. The rookie smashed a 2-0 90-m.p.h. fastball over the left-field fence to put the Blue Jays into a 6-3 lead.

Lawrie had to wave from the dugout when the crowd chanted his name after the grand slam.

Sign-stealing allegations 'ridiculous'

Jose Bautista wonders what it's going to be next.

"I'm intrigued to see what they're going to come up with next week or next year to try to decipher why we're playing good or why we're doing good or something," the Toronto Blue Jays right-fielder said before yesterday's game against the Oakland Athletics.

The major-league home run leader was responding to the latest twist in what has become an ongoing saga. An ESPN report says at least four members of an opposing team — identified by Bautista as the Chicago White Sox — claim the Blue Jays stole signs from outside the field of play during games at Rogers Centre.

"This is just ridiculous and fictitious," Bautista said.

Bautista has 33 homers this season, and led the majors with 54 last season. As his home run total mounted last year he had to listen to suggestions that steroids might be involved.

"Doing things that are illegal in the game of baseball, this has not happened here and it won't happen," Bautista said. "That's not the way I do things. That's the same answer I gave last year about the whole steroid thing."

Players in the visiting bullpen noticed a man dressed in white in the outfield at the Jays' stadium in April of 2010. According to the website's report, the players said the man made signals from the outfield stands to Toronto batters, apparently alerting them to what pitch was coming.

ANDREW WALLACE/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Fans at the Rogers Centre last night.

"I don't see how you can look at the ball and look at that at the same time," Bautista said. "It's impossible in my head. From reading the article, I have no idea how they claim this is done … It would help anybody to know what's coming. Of course it does."

The all-star was supported by Toronto's front office.

"This is stupid," said Blue Jays general manager Alex Anthopoulos, who denied that his team stole signs in the article and did so again before yesterday's game.

"There's zero truth to this," Anthopoulos told reporters. "No one's ever contacted me. No GM has picked up the phone and called me."

Canadian loses to his tennis idol

Pospisil puts up a fight, but Federer knocks him out of Rogers Cup

PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vasek Pospisil reacts during his match against Roger Federer yesterday.

To Canada's Vasek Pospisil it was a dream outing on the court: An ATP main-draw event, a big crowd and his boyhood idol Roger Federer standing on the other side of the net.

Federer beat Pospisil in their Rogers Cup matchup yesterday in Montreal, ending a showdown between a tennis great and a 21-year-old who's idolized him since childhood.

But the 155th-ranked Pospisil didn't leave centre court without putting up a fight. The native of Vernon, B.C., kept the first set close at Uniprix Stadium before Federer finally disposed of him 7-5, 6-3.

Federer wasn't the only big name to survive a scare yesterday, as No. 1 seed Novak Djokovic had to storm back from 4-1 deficit in the first set against Russia's Nikolay Davydenko to win 7-5, 6-1.

"I knew (Federer) plays fast, but it's another level of fast, to be honest."
VASEK POSPISIL

In his first ATP singles match since climbing to No. 1 in the rankings, the 24-year-old Serb improved his stunning 2011 record to 49-1 overall and 25-0 on hard courts.

Federer's win nudged his overall mark this year to 40-9 and his career record in Canada rose to 27-7.

The Swiss tennis star, playing his first match since turning 30 on Monday, said it's not the first time he's heard of a younger opponent's admiration.

"For me it was important to have role models to look up to, such as (Pete) Sampras and (Stefan) Edberg and so forth," he said after beating Pospisil.

"Then to be able to also play Pete at Wimbledon was very big in my career, it gave me a huge lift to be able to play in a big stadium against a big player — and I hope it does the same for him."

Federer said he was impressed with Pospisil's performance, highlighting the Canadian's mobility and his heavy serve.

"It was a tricky match for me to play today," said Federer. When a reporter told him that Federer was impressed by his level of play, Pospisil blushed, let out a nervous giggle and stumbled on his words a little bit.

"To hear that from Roger, for me it's incredible," the starstruck Pospisil said. "He's been my favourite player for eight years, so it's someone I watched on television every week, so yeah, it's nice to hear that." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Charges for Chara? Crown will decide

Lawyer expects Boston captain's hit on Pacioretty to go unpunished

A Montreal police investigation into Boston Bruins captain Zdeno Chara has been completed and the file has been transferred to criminal prosecutors, as per standard procedure.

Now that the investigation is over, Crown lawyers must decide whether to lay charges over Chara's devastating hit against Montreal Canadiens forward Max Pacioretty last March.

Police had held off interviewing Chara during the spring, while his Bruins were on their Stanley Cup-winning run. Investigators questioned him last month and described him as a cooperative witness. Quebec authorities got involved amid a public outcry after the NHL announced it would not suspend Chara for smashing Pacioretty into a stanchion.

Pacioretty has recovered from a cracked vertebra and concussion, and is expected to return to action next season.

Police began investigating upon a request from Quebec's director of criminal and penal prosecutions.

Lawyer and former university hockey player Jean-Pierre Rancourt said yesterday that he doubts any charges will be laid.

Rancourt said Crown prosecutors would have to prove Chara's intent to injure, beyond a reasonable doubt. Meanwhile, the defendant could simply argue that events transpired too quickly for him to realize the potential ramifications of his act. THE CANADIAN PRESS

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You don't like to admit defeat but with your ruler Mars at odds with Pluto today, you may have to.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 A relationship that has been up and down is beginning to stabilize. Don't let minor irritations ruin it.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Most likely what you thought was a problem is not a problem at all.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 If you feel physically and mentally exhausted, you must heed your body's warning and slow down.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 People will try to play on your feelings of guilt, but you must not let them succeed.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 A problem you have been struggling with will resolve itself today and the relief you feel will be euphoric.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 If you allow yourself to dwell on negative imaginings, they could so easily lead to negative events.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Try not to take anything too seriously today, especially if you tend to dwell on perceived slights.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 It's good to remind people that behind that easygoing exterior is a sensitive human being.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 If a friend seems a bit hostile, but you must not let it get to you.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You have bitten off more than you can chew. Decide what tasks are worth carrying on with.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. If you let colleagues down it will damage your future prospects.
